Announcement of Subsidiary's Organization and Personnel Changes ~Monex, Inc. to Integrate Investment Education Activities of the Group ~

TOKYO, October 9, 2012 – Monex, Inc. (“Monex”), a 100% subsidiary of Monex Group, Inc. (the “Company”), has decided to take over the mission and the role of Monex University, Inc., which had been a 100% subsidiary of Monex Group, Inc. and was dissolved on September 27, 2012, in developing investment education related activities and the following organization and personnel changes effective today.

1. Background

As a whole group, we have been committed to investment education activities since the foundation. We devoted our efforts to provide individual investors investment education related contents, from investment theories to practical investment methods, by delivering investment related mail magazines, such as “Monex Mail Magazines”, hosting seminars and so on, so as to contribute in improving financial literacy and investment returns of individual investors.

Monex University, Inc. had been the pillar of the investment education activities within our group since its establishment in 2005.

For improving efficiency of our business, we decided that the mission and the role of investment education for individual investors be integrated into Monex. In order for Monex to take over such mission and role with the same seriousness as we had had toward investment education since the foundation of our group and to maintain the same commitment in providing investment education activities to individual investors, Monex has set up a new department called “Monex University”, which will be the center of our investment education activities.

2. Organization and Personnel Changes (as of October 9, 2012)

“Monex University” is set up as an organization inside Monex and General Manager is assigned as follows:

Name	New Assignment	Current Assignment
Naoki Murakami	General Manager of Financial Intelligence Dept. (Chief Economist) and General Manager of Monex University	General Manager of Financial Intelligence Dept. (Chief Economist)
